Image Credits

Contact Us page: Juan Gris, Fantômas (detail), 1915, National Gallery of Art, Washington (photo courtesy National Gallery of Art, Washington)

Inside, upper left: Roman (Republican), Cubiculum from the Villa of P. Fannius Synistor at Boscoreale (detail), ca. 50-40 BCE, Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York (photo: The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York)

Inside, upper right: Nigerian (Court of Benin), Queen Mother Pendant Mask: Iyoba, 16th century, Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York (photo: The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York)

The Visual Resources Center is dedicated to the support of teaching and research at the University of Delaware. Our digital image collections illustrate the global history of art and architecture from prehistory to the present, and are always available online to current University of Delaware faculty, staff, and students in all disciplines. The Visual Resources Center’s staff is here to assist members of the University of Delaware community in the creation and use of digital media.

Artstor
www.artstor.org

All current University of Delaware faculty, staff, and students have access to these digital collections, which are available in Artstor:

- The Artstor Digital Library contains millions of images covering the arts, architecture, the humanities, and the sciences, and includes many of the most familiar works of art taught in Art History courses.

- Shared Shelf allows the University of Delaware to integrate its own local content into Artstor. The Visual Resources Center’s Shared Shelf collection is available exclusively to UD users.

- Other University of Delaware Collections in Shared Shelf include images of objects in the University Museums and the University of Delaware Library.

- The Archivision Research Library contains images of architecture, parks, gardens, and works of public art.

- Shared Shelf Commons (www.sscommons.org) is an open-access repository that makes many of the University of Delaware’s images available to anyone worldwide.

Digital Image Collections

All images in the Visual Resources Center’s collection are subject to copyright law. These images are intended solely for purposes of teaching, scholarship, and research at the University of Delaware, and may not be used for any commercial purposes. Images in the Visual Resources Center’s collection may not be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, or likewise. It is the sole responsibility of the user to secure any and all permissions from the appropriate copyright owners before publishing an image or using it in anything but a nonprofit, educational capacity. The Visual Resources Center does not own the copyright to any of the materials in its collection, and cannot grant any requests for permission to reproduce these materials.